MOTION REQUESTING LEAVE TO FILE PETITION TO AMEND PURSUANT TO RULE 15(a), F.R.CIV.P., DUE TO EXCEPTIONAL CIRCUMSTANCES -- TO PREVENT A SERIOUS
MISCARRIAGE OF JUSTICE

TO THE HONORABLE JUDGE OF SAID COURT;

MAY IT PLEASE THIS COURT:

COMES NOW, Charles Wilkerson, Petitioner, pro-se, (and being referred to herein as, Mr. Wilkerson and/or Petitioner), in the aforementioned caption, respectfully requesting that this Honorable Court thoroughly entertains the full merits (with facts, arguments and/or exhibits, etc.) of Mr. Wilkerson's claims and grant the same as a whole and/or in part. In support thereof, Mr. Wilkerson, pro-se, to wit, states as follows:

Petitioner seeks liberal constraints and/or humbly requests that this Honorable Court utilizes its reasonable good-will discretion by reviewing the present Amendment (that was properly prepared with due diligence and under good faith not to prejudice the Government in no way, shape, form and/or fashion etc.), under the standards set forth by the Supreme Court in Haines v. Kerner, 92 S.Ct. 594, 404 U.S. 519, 30 L.Ed.2d 652 (1972) (per curiam) (Especially when one is in prison, allegations of pro-se, complaint are held to less stringent standards 1 than formal pleadings drafted by lawyers).

2 Moreover, authority to support the instant Amendment can be found 3 in, Schever v. Rhodes, 416 U.S. 232, 40 L.Ed.2d 90 (1974), where the 4 Supreme Court found:

5 "Factual allegations must be presumed to be true, 6 and Court must draw all reasonable inferences in 7 favor of Petitioner/Plaintiff. The issue is not whether Petitioner/Plaintiff will ultimately prevail, but whether he's entitled to offer evidence in support of his claims."

8 Id.

9 Additionally, Petitioner cites another authority from the Supreme 10 Court to further support the instant Motion to Amend, which can be 11 found in Hughes v. Rowe, 409 U.S. 9, 66 L.Ed.2d 163 (1980) ("A pro-se, 12 litigant's pleadings are to be construed liberally, and he/she must be 13 allowed to develop a potentially meritorious claim"), and in Fine v.
 14 City of New York, 529 F.2d 70 (2nd Cir. 1975), the Court held that, 15 "When a Federal Court is evaluating a pro-se, complaint petition, the 16 Plaintiff's or Petitioner's allegations are deemed to be true."

17 Petitioner, pro-se, hereby further submits the instant motion re-18 questing leave to amend in light of Rule 15(a), F.R.Civ.P., which ex-19 plicitly states in part that:

20 "(a) AMENDMENTS. A party may amend the party's 21 pleading once as a matter of course at any time 22 before a responsive pleading is served or, if the 23 pleading is one to which no responsive pleading 24 is permitted and the action has not been placed 25 upon the trial calendar, the party may so amend 26 it at any time within 20 days after it is served.
 Otherwise a party may amend the party's pleading only by leave of court or by written consent of the adverse party; and leave shall be freely given when justice so requires" [As here, with Mr.
 Wilkerson who is actually "factually" innocent].

27 Id. at Rule 15(a), F.R.Civ.P.

28 Mr. Wilkerson submits that, "the purpose of [Fed.R.Civ.P.] 15 is

1 to provide maximum opportunity for each claim to be decided on its 2 merits rather than on procedural technicalities. This is demonstrated 3 by the emphasis Rule 15 places on the permissive approach that the 4 District Courts are to take to Amendment requests, no matter what their 5 character may be." United States v. Thomas, 221 F.3d 430, 435 (3rd Cir.
6 2000) (quoting 6 Charles Allen Wright & Arthur R. Miller, Federal Prac-7 tice & Procedure § 1471 (2d. Ed. 1990) (2000 Supp.)). Pursuant to Fed.
8 R.Civ. P. 15(a), a party may amend the party's pleading once as a matter
9 of course before a responsive pleading is served [As here, the District
10 Court has not issued a "Show Cause Order" to the Government, mistakenly 11 believing that Petitioner has "NOT" paid the Court's filing fee of 12 $5.00 for the process to begin]. See, (Exhibit - A).

13 Furthermore, Rule 15(a), F.R.Civ.P., does however, permit an amend-14 ment even after a responsive pleading is served [which is inapplicable 15 to Petitioner's present position as stated at supra], with leave of 16 Court, which "shall be freely given when justice so requires." Leave 17 to amend should be freely granted, unless there is evidence of undue 18 delay, bad faith, or dilatory motive on part of the movant, repeated 19 failure to cure deficiencies by amendments previously allowed, or undue 20 prejudice to the opposing party by virtue of allowing the amendment.
21 See, Foman v. Davis, 371 U.S. 178, 182 (1962).

22 In this instance, Petitioner has diligently prepared the present
23 motion to amend, to cure some deficiencies found inside Mr. Wilkerson's 24 28 U.S.C. § 2254 Motion form, erroneously alleging that Petitioner was 25 afforded two (2) Evidentiary Hearings in the State Court proceedings 26 which are far from the truth; which said errors were committed by the 27 Jailhouse Lawyer at FCI-Raybrook that prepared said motion in question 28 for Mr. Wilkerson. Thus, this Honorable Court has the discretion to 1 allow the leave to file an amendment pleading anytime during the pro-2 ceedings to afford the Government sufficient facts to file an adequate 3 response. But, failure to grant the instant amendment being submitted 4 in good faith and with due diligence will expose Mr. Wilkerson to suffer 5 a severe miscarriage of justice. Easterwood v. Champion, 213 F.3d 1321 6 (10th Cir. 2000) ("Noting that evaluation of due diligence may not 7 'ignore [] the reality of the prison system.'"). See also, Wims v.

 8 United States, 225 F.3d 186 (2nd Cir. 2000).

9 Mr. Wilkerson respectfully refers this Honorable Court to apply 10 the legal principle of Boykin v. Alabama, 395 U.S. 238, 242-243 (1969), 11 in the case at bar, where the Supreme Court held that the constitutional 12 requirement of a guilty plea must be vacated or nullified unless the 13 record of the plea proceedings demonstrates that it was knowing and 14 voluntary." Thus, as the Fifth Circuit noted in Clayton v. Blackburn, 15 578 F.2d 117, 120 (5th Cir. 1978) (per curiam), the mandate of Boykin 16 is best satisfied when a verbatim transcript of the guilty plea plead-17 ing is available on review.

18 In Domenica v. United States, 292 F.2d 483 (1st Cir. 1961), the 19 First Circuit decided that a Rule 11 compliance commanded that 1) the 20 plea be voluntarily made, 2) with an understanding of the nature of the 21 charge, and 3) that the court address the defendant [As in this in-22 stance, Mr. Wilkerson, pro-se] personally. The record should reflect 23 that, as in Petitioner's case in question, the Honorable Dolan has a 24 regular custom "NOT" to issue a "PLEA COLLOQUY" to all defendants that 25 go before him i.e., to plead guilty, which is a clear violation under 26 Rule 11, F.R.Crim.P., the Constitution and Massachusetts law; which 27 was done against Petitioner and rising to the -- violations being pre-28 sented herein.... .

1 In the case at bar, Mr. Wilkerson asserts that, in Boykin v.
 2 Alabama, at supra, the Supreme Court further held that it was constitu-3 tional error for a state trial court to accept a guilty plea without an 4 affirmative showing that the plea was voluntary and intelligent. A 5 guilty plea was said to waive three Federal Constitutional rights [As 6 shown above]: The right to a jury trial, the right to confront one's 7 accusers, and the privilege against compulsory self-incrimination.
 8 Waiver of these three rights by a guilty plea cannot be presumed from 9 a silent record [As here, with Petitioner's present situation]. See, 10 (Affidavit of Mr. Wilkerson). The record should also reflect that the 11 First Circuit in Domenica at supra, further supports the Boykin's 12 standard.

13 The Honorable Judge Dolan upon denying Petitioner's Motion For New 14 Trial Pursuant to Mass. R. Crim. P. 30(b), lacking knowledge of Mr.
 15 Wilkerson's personal (Juvenile) history erroneously held as follows:

16 "In the very date (5/10/93) he received this sentence, 17 defendant apparently pleaded to another charge at the 18 Dorchester Jury Session # 9207JC0393. He had appealed 19 a prior case to the Jury Session and defaulted there.
 20 He also defaulted on this case. 'WHILE THE DEFENDANT 21 PROBABLY DID NOT GET A FULL COLLOQUY ON THIS CASE, he 22 was advised of his right to appeal to a jury trial. He 23 had exercised that right in the past [Where as here, Mr.
 24 Wilkerson was nothing but a juvenile -- running/hiding
 25 from the Department of Social Services (DSS)] and dis-26 posed of a case in the Jury session. On 5/10/93 he took 27 an 18 months committed sentence in the Jury Session and 28 a suspended sentence on this case."

29 See, (Judge Dolan's Denial Order, dated 8/3/00 at Exhibit - B). See 30 also, (Affidavit of Mr. Charles Wilkerson in support of same).

31 Thereafter, it should be further noted that, the Commonwealth of 32 Massachusetts Appeals Court later compounded the error committed by 33 Judge Dolan i.e., by denying Mr. Wilkerson's appeal by holding the 34 following:

1 "In addition, the judge who denied the defendant's 2 motion to withdraw his plea was the same judge who 3 took the plea and implemented the plea bargain. We 4 grant substantial deference to a decision denying 5 a Rule 30(b) motion of this type when the judge pass-6 ing on the motion is the same judge who heard the 7 plea. Commonwealth v. Amirault, 424 Mass. 618, 646
 8 (1997). The judge had the defendant's memorandum
 9 of law and heard argument on the defendant's motion 10 to withdraw his admissions before denying the motion.
 11 The judge appeared to have relied on the fact that 12 the defendant was not inexperienced when it came to 13 District Court practice in 1993. See, Commonwealth
 14 v. Russell, 37 Mass.App.Ct. 152, 157 (1994), cert.
 15 denied, 513 U.S. 1094 (1995). The judge noted that 16 on the same date as the plea in question, the defen-
 17 dant pleaded to another charge in a District Court 18 Jury Session. He had also appealed a prior case to 19 the Jury Session, and defaulted there. As such, the 20 judge noted, the defendant had exercised his Jury 21 Trial right in the past and disposed of a case in the 22 Jury Session. This suggests that the defendant had 23 an awareness of the mechanics of a trial, his right 24 to confront witnesses and the like, and his right to 25 have his guilt or innocence ultimately determined 26 by a jury. See, Ibid. This circumstance supports 27 the conclusion that the defendant understood the conse-
 28 quences of his admissions on May 10, 1993."

16 Id. at 3 - 4 (Commonwealth of Massachusetts Appeals Court Denial Order 17 dated, May 1st, 2002). See also, (Exhibit - C).

18 Now, Mr. Wilkerson, pro-se, further submits the instant motion 19 requesting leave to amend, to refer this Honorable Court to numerous 20 significant/extraordinary areas of Petitioner's First and Second 21 Federal Sentencing Transcripts and Federal Sentencing Memorandum by 22 the Honorable Nancy Gertner -- highlighting where Petitioner's child-23 hood run-ins with the law, explicitly invalidates Judge Dolan's Denial 24 Order (And the Appeals Court's Order of Affirmance...where neither 25 Court took time out to discover the facts below by delving behind the 26 scenes as Judge Gertner executed at length , and the proceedings in 27 pertinent parts at length went as follows:

28 THE COURT: Okay. Number two, on the face of what you've

1 presented, Mr. Palmer, there's not a basis for downward departure based 2 on family obligations, except as I began to look underneath the surface
3 of this case. I can't figure out how Mr. Wilkerson lived from age 14 4 on. His mother was not in the picture. Who raised him?

5 MR. PALMER: Well, there's a suggestion in the probation re-6 port, which I think is confirmed by the defendant, that he basically 7 was on his own on the street. There were friends, parents of friends, 8 that type of thing, who took him in.

9 THE COURT: Do you have -- or are there DYS records as to -- 10 I mean, yes, everyone has come from broken homes, but there usually was 11 some parent around. It looks, from this, that Mr. Wilkerson was on the 12 street at 14.

13 MR. PALMER: Well, that's why I say it's extraordinary.

14 THE COURT: Well, but I need more data to back it up. It's 15 not just his say-so. I need more data. I think there would be DSS 16 records that can -- if he was ever in Department of Social Services 17 custody, there would be DSS services. If he was ever in DYS custody, 18 someone would have done an evaluation of him. Maybe there are school 19 records. When did he stop going to school?

20 MR. PALMER: I think he dropped out in the ninth grade, your 21 Honor, so it was about that time, and he was 13 or 14.

22 THE COURT: And he stayed with friends. Are there parents of 23 friends who can tell us something about what his life was like? The 24 case law on extraordinary family obligations is very narrow. Very, very 25 narrow.

26 Now, this -- a kid on the street at 14 is something that is 27 certainly far worse than others that I've seen. Not just broken homes.
28 Not just from family to family. But nothing. But I need confirmation

1 that it is nothing. I need documentation that that's so.

2 I don't promise that when I get that documentation I will 3 still think it rises to this level, but, certainly, that's a much -- 4 that is a different story. People that come from broken homes, the 5 fathers have been in and out of trouble, the mothers have been in and 6 out of trouble. But I don't think that any one of the people that I've 7 sentenced, at least, has come from nothing. And this looks like nothing

8 And surely, someone at school, Department of Social Services, 9 Department of Youth Services, a neighbor, a teacher, somebody, would 10 have seen what was going on. Because it almost looks like, if he was 11 really on the street, jail was almost the safest place to be.

12 MR. PALMER: Well, he was committed to DYS at the age of 15.

13 THE COURT: For how long?

14 MR. PALMER: I think -- I think the report indicates he was 15 in the custody of DYS for 30 months.

16 THE COURT: Thirty months. Thirty months. So --

17 MR. PALMER: Now, whether that was within a, you know secure 18 situation, I'm not sure, because DYS has the ability to place people as 19 well.

20 THE COURT: I would like to see that. That -- I -- if there 21 really is a total absence of parental or any other kind of guidance, I 22 want to hear about that.

23 Id. at 7 - 9. See, (Exhibit - E).

24 THE COURT: I agree with you. I agree with you completely.
25 I mean, this has been an evolving story. I agree with you completely.

26 MR. PALMER: I do, too, your Honor.

27 THE COURT: I mean, Mr. Palmer, though, raised the question
28 of the efficacy of the 1993 conviction. I think he has a very substan-

1 tial argument, looking at Judge Dolan's endorsement on that.
2 Id. at 13. See, (Exhibit - E).

3 MR. PALMER: So, I mean, my point, as I say, you've written 4 extensively on it with respect to the codefendants. That's the issue.
5 I would suggest that -- I mean, it ties in to the family issue that, 6 according to the reports, this is a young man who, at the age of 15, 7 was basically thrust in the role of overseeing or managing or trying 8 to, as best he could under difficult circumstances, and there's some 9 indication in the reports that he was trying to make a living and 10 support his younger brother and mother in a dysfunctional environment.
11 And it wound up with involving him in what I would call low-level crime 12 in Roxbury or Dorchester.

13 There's no indication of violence. And I think, going back 14 to the DSS records, it's striking to me that of all the reports in the 15 DSS, there's talk about his brother, there's talk about his sister, 16 there's not that much talk about Charles acting out in inappropriate 17 ways except for the fact that he was possibly involved in selling drugs.
18 That's basically the complaint against him.

19 And so, you have him committing these crimes in the context 20 of this family -- this dysfunctional family.

21 Id. at 14 - 15. See, (Exhibit - F).

22 THE COURT: Okay. Have you read the presentence report, sir?

23 THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

24 THE COURT: Are there any other corrections that you want to 25 tell me about, other than what your lawyer's told you about?

26 THE DEFENDANT: The ages are wrong.

27 THE COURT: The age of what?

28 THE DEFENDANT: The ages, just how they break down the 1 crimes and ages.

2 THE COURT: What do you mean, you're older or younger at 3 the various --

4 THE DEFENDANT: Younger.

5 THE COURT: Younger.

6 Id. at 22. See, (Exhibit - F).

7 Mr. Wilkerson's story is tragic and compelling. He was abandoned
8 by his parents at age 14, and from that point on, except for periods 9 in the custody of the Department of Youth Services, he and his three 10 siblings were homeless. He became the family's provider. He dealt 11 drugs to obtain money for all their needs -- food, clothes, school 12 supplies -- and when they found a place to live, rent money. While I 13 have sentenced individuals with dysfunctional families before, I have 14 never encountered a young man who had to raise himself.

15 Between the ages of 17 and 22, Mr. Wilkerson had numerous encoun-16 ters with the police -- a pattern of convictions in the district courts 17 (for the most part) involving drugs, motor vehicle violations, and 18 possession of burglarious tools. None involved violence.

19 Id. at 1 - 2. See, (Exhibit - G).

20 "The tragic bottom line is that for a non-violent street dealer for 21 whom dealing drugs, although wrong, may well have meant survival, Mr.
22 Wilkerson will be obliged to serve ten years in jail."

23 Id. at 4. See, (Exhibit - G).

24 A. Personal Background

25 Mr. Wilkerson is a 26 year old man, who was abandoned by his pa-26 rents at age 14 (e.g., These facts derive from the Presentence Report 27 and were uncontested. In addition, the Court has reviewed the volumi-28 nous records from the Department of Social Services.). He was born on

1 July 28, 1975, the second of four children of Austin Johnson and Robin 2 Wilkerson. During the first ten years of his life, he witnessed the 3 daily abuse of his mother at the hands of what his probation officer
4 described as her "drug crazed" companion (e.g., Even before the total 5 disintegration of the family when Mr. Wilkerson was 14, there were re-6 ports of serious problems: a neglect petition from 1987 (when Mr.
7 Wilkerson was 11) indicating that his mother admitted to wrapping an 8 extension cord around Mr. Wilkerson's neck, trying to strangle him. On 9 other occasions she left the four children alone when the oldest was 10 only 11.).

11 At 14, his father left home. His mother retreated to her bedroom, 12 effectively abandoning the children because of her crack cocaine addic-13 tion. Then, according to Department of Social Services records, the 14 house was raided by police as a "crack house." The family became home-15 less, finding temporary shelter at the homes of relatives and friends, 16 when they could, or motels, or the streets. Records reflect that Mr.
17 Wilkerson's mother attempted suicide numerous times, that numerous 18 neglect petitions were filed for the children by the authorities that 19 encountered them at school, or on the street. They speak of a family 20 "in crisis," of a mother "overwhelmed," of children raising themselves.

21 Before he was 17 Mr. Wilkerson ran afoul of the law and was in and 22 out of the custody of the Department of Youth Services. He never gradu-23 ated from high school; indeed, he barely attended school at all be-24 cause of the disarray at home.

25 Older youths from the Castlegate gang recruited Mr. Wilkerson to 26 sell drugs, knowing that there was no parental oversight. With the pro-27 ceeds from the sale of drugs, Mr. Wilkerson paid for his siblings' needs 28 -- school supplies, food, clothes -- and tried to raise money for rent

1 (e.g., This theme of Mr. Wilkerson's functioning as the sole support of 2 his mother and three siblings, is repeated throughout the records of 3 the Department of Social Services.) As probation notes, "In Ms.
 4 Wilkerson's mind, her son was a hero."

5 Id. at 5 - 6. See, (Exhibit - G).

6 In the case at bar, Petitioner submits the fact that Judge Dolan's 7 failure to hold a plea colloquy and thereafter an "EVIDENTIARY HEARING"
 8 to delve behind the scenes [As the Honorable Nancy Gertner, D.J. execu-9 ted above at length, again, in Petitioner's Federal Sentencing proceed-10 ings -- discovering the true fact that Mr. Wilkerson was a juvenile--], 11 to allow the record to be fully developed, deprived Petitioner from 12 acquiring an equitable, fair and impartial plea hearing (i.e., free 13 from coercion, pressure and duress, etc.), and explicitly proven where 14 Petitioner asserted in his affidavit in support of his motion for new 15 trial in pertinent parts that:

16 "5. I had a brief conversation with Mr. Tomasetti in 17 the lockup in which he told me that he could not try 18 the case, but that he could get me a suspended sen-19 tence. He did not discuss the facts of the case, review any defenses to the case, or discuss the search warrant that had resulted in the seizure of evidence;"

20 "7. I was asked if I understood the charges to which 21 I was pleading guilty. I was not asked or told about 22 the right to jury that I was waiving, i.e., that the 23 jury is made up of members of the community, that I could participate in their selection, that their ver-24 dict must be unanimous, that the jury decides the facts, and the judge rules on the law and imposes sentence if found guilty;"

25 "9. My admission to sufficient facts was not volun-
 26 tary because I thought that if I did not plead guilty 27 and claimed my right to a trial or jury trial, I would have to remain in jail;"

28 See, (Affidavit of Mr. Charles Wilkerson -- Dated 2/10/00);

1 In Marquis v. United States, 698 F.2d 13 (1983), which stands in 2 complete contrast to Mr. Wilkerson's position where the court held that, 3 "At the time of the plea, the District Judge questioned the petitioner 4 at length and gave him every opportunity to reconsider and withdraw his 5 guilty plea. He did not. Petitioner was a sophisticated and success-
 6 ful businessman. He understood what he was doing and pled guilty volun-
 7 tarily. Being an insurance salesman, petitioner possessed the neces-8 sary forcefulness and articulation to tell the judge he was being 9 forced against his will to plead guilty if that was indeed the case."
 10 Id. at 16. Unlike Mr. Wilkerson [who was a juvenile, running from DSS
 11 and DYS, a junior high school dropout, very inexperienced to the intri-12 cate science of the law, placed under duress by defense counsel with 13 trickery (alleging that he [Mr. Tomasetti, Esq.] could not try Peti-14 tioner's case), and being raised/guided by older Castlegate gang mem-15 bers with knowledge of Mr. Wilkerson's status...etc.] See, (Affidavit 16 of Mr. Wilkerson). See also, (Exhibits - D - G).

17 In the instant matter at hand, where there is no record of Peti-18 tioner's plea colloquy, Mr. Wilkerson asserts that the Commonwealth of 19 Massachusetts Appeals Court has acknowledged that if that record "is 20 unavailable, it may be reconstructed through testimony or other suita-21 ble proof of what happened in court when the guilty plea was taken."
 22 Commonwealth v. Quinones, 414 Mass. 423, 432 (1993) (citations omitted).
 23 See, Commonwealth v. Rzepphiewski, 431 Mass. 48, 53-54 (2000). View-24 ing the above mentioned, it should be noted that an "EVIDENTIARY 25 HEARING" is inevitable/imminent.

26 In McCarthy v. United States, 394 U.S. 459, 465, 89 S.Ct. 1166, 27 22 L.Ed.2d 418 (1969), the Supreme Court set out two purposes to be 28 served by Rule 11: First, to assist the District Court in making the 1 constitutionally mandated determination that the defendant's guilty 2 plea is voluntary, and second, to provide a complete record at the 3 time the plea is entered of factors relevant to the voluntariness 4 determination.

5 Furthermore, failure to comply with Rule 11 entitles a Federal 6 defendant [As here, Mr. Wilkerson] to have his guilty plea set aside 7 and his case remanded for another hearing at which he may plead anew.
 8 United States v. Segal, 549 F.2d 1293, 1296 (1977). See, McCarthy, 9 394 U.S. at 468-72. See also, Fed.R.Crim.P. 11 Advisory Committee 10 Notes to 1974 Amendments ("The method by which the defendant's under-11 standing of the nature of the charge is determined may vary from case 12 to case, depending on the complexity of the circumstances and the 13 particular defendant"). Although, "[c]harges of a complex nature, 14 including esoteric terms unfamiliar to the laymind, may require greater 15 explication by the 'BENCH,'" Mack v. United States, 635 F.2d 1237, 16 1245 (1st Cir. 1991); United States v. Corporan-Cuevas, 244 F.3d 199, 17 203 (1st Cir. 2001).

18 In Sassoon v. United States, 561 F.2d 1154, 1157 (1977), the 19 court held that, "A defendant is entitled to plead anew if a United 20 States District Court accepts his guilty plea without fully adhering 21 to the procedure provided for in Rule 11." See, McCarthy at 463-64, 22 89 S.Ct. at 1169. Plus, "Rule 11 claims 'MUST' be resolved 'SOLELY' 23 on the basis of the arraignment and sentencing transcripts [which is 24 unavailable in Mr. Wilkerson's case]. Id. at 1157. See, United States
 25 v. Coronado, 554 F.2d 166 (5th Cir. 1977). Although Boykin involved 26 a state prisoner [As here with Mr. Wilkerson], the same principles 27 guided the Supreme Court in this decision as in cases construing Rule 28 11 for use in Federal Courts. See, Boykin at 243.

1 Moreover, the judge should also "make sure that the defendant has 2 conferred with his counsel about the waiver, and that he has not been 3 pressured or cajoled and is not intoxicated or otherwise rendered in-4 applicable of rational judgment." Ciummhei v. Commonwealth, 378 Mass.
 5 504, 510 (1979). In brief, "a defendant... must simply have indicated 6 a comprehension of the nature of the choice." Id. See, (Affidavit 7 of Mr. Wilkerson, in support of the pressure/duress Petitioner was 8 placed under deceitfully by Mr. Tomasetti, Esq.).

9 Petitioner further submits that the record must demonstrate that 10 the defendant was pleading guilty or admitting to sufficient facts 11 voluntarily and had not been threatened or unduly pressured. A "real 12 probe of the defendant's mind" is necessary in order that the colloquy 13 not "become a litany," but [rather] attempt a live evaluation of whe-14 ther the plea has been sufficiently mediated by the defendant with 15 guidance of counsel, and whether it is not being extracted from the 16 defendant under undue pressure." Commonwealth v. Foster, 369 Mass. 100, 17 107 (1985). Representations from counsel may not be substituted for 18 questions from the court and responses from the defendant on the record.
 19 Commonwealth v. Pavao, 423 Mass. 798, 802 (1996) ("Critical evidence for 20 determining whether the [Jury Trial] waiver was made [must] come directly 21 from the defendant in the colloquy.").

22 In addition, "while it is true that Sassoon may have known and under-23 stood the charges against him, both the Supreme Court and this Court 24 [Likewise, the First Circuit] have held that the District Court must not 25 proceed upon an assumption that the defendant has been adequately in-26 formed. The McCarthy Court stated that the District Court must not act 27 upon any assumptions not based on recorded responses to his inquiries." 28 Id. at 1158. Rule 11 makes clear that the judge "MUST" "develop, on the 1 record, the factual basis for the plea, as, for example, by having the 2 accused describe the conduct that gave rise to the charge." Santobello

 3 v. New York, 404 U.S. 257, 261, 92 S.Ct. 495, 498, 30 L.Ed.2d 427 (1971)
 4 (dictum) (emphasis in original). Had the above mentioned legal principles 5 been adhered to by Judge Dolan, it would have been known of what 6 Mr. Wilkerson was running from and the critical factor of his juvenile 7 upbringing.

8 Nonetheless, Petitioner asserts that, in examining the state record, 9 the District Court must also determine whether the state tribunal pro-10 vided a "FULL AND FAIR HEARING", Townsend v. Sain, 372 U.S. 293, 312, 11 83 S.Ct. 745, 756, 9 L.Ed.2d 770 (1962), on the voluntariness of the 12 plea, e.g., Clayton at 119. Consistent with Townsend, courts have 13 deemed an Evidentiary Hearing before the District Court a necessity 14 only if the state record does not meet that standard. Sena v. Romero, 15 617 F.2d 579, 580-81 (10th Cir. 1980). Once this Honorable Court con-16 venes/orders a Federal Evidentiary Hearing, Petitioner would be able to 17 present his prima facie case (fully developing the facts of Mr. Wilker-18 son's claims), and all the constitutional violations..., the burden 19 shifts to the state [As here, the State of Massachusetts] to show the 20 voluntariness of the plea. Sena at 581. United States v. Price Paul, 21 540 F.2d 417, 423-24 (9th Cir. 1976); Howard v. Wolff, 511 F.Supp. 189, 22 193 (D.N. 1981).

23 The reliance of other courts on the "Full and Fair Hearing" standard 24 of Townsend demonstrates that they too recognize the factual nature of 25 the Boykin inquiry. An evidentiary hearing is necessary when such a 26 factual claim remains unresolved [As here, with Mr. Wilkerson, pro-se].
 27 See, 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d) (1976). In United States Ex Rel. Grundset v.
 28 Franzen, 675 F.2d 870 (1982) (quoting Clayton) [As in Mr. Wilkerson's

1 case in question], "no transcript of the guilty plea proceeding was 2 available. An evidentiary hearing was held before the same judge who 3 had presided at the entry of Clayton's guilty plea." Id. at 879. "The 4 magistrate to whom the case was assigned recommended that a writ of 5 habeas corpus be granted and that the District Court [As here, with the 6 District Court of Massachusetts] hold an evidentiary hearing to assess 7 the credibility of those who testified at the state hearing..." Id. at 8 879.

9 Mr. Wilkerson submits that, the inquiry required of a District Judge 10 on a petition for habeas when the record of the guilty plea proceeding 11 is inadequate has been discussed by several courts of appeals. First, 12 the district Judge must examine the entire record of state proceedings 13 to determine (1) whether the petitioner raised a prima facie case of a 14 constitutional violation, e.g., Clayton at 120; Todd v. Lockhart, 490 15 F.2d 626, 628-29 (8th Cir. 1974) (per curiam), and if so, (2) whether 16 the Boykin defect was cured in the course of post-conviction proceedings 17 by a demonstration that the plea was made voluntarily and with knowledge 18 of its consequences, e.g., Gardner v. Pogue, 568 F.2d 648 (9th Cir. 1978).
19 The burden in such a state post-conviction hearing must be allocated to 20 the state if it is to cure the Boykin defect. Griffith v. Wyrick, 527 21 F.2d 109, 112, n. 4 (8th Cir. 1975).

22 In Mack v. United States, 635 F.2d 20 (1st Cir. 1980), the First 23 Circuit explicitly held that, "Here, we follow the holding of McCarthy 24 that 'prejudice inheres in a failure to comply with Rule 11.'" McCarthy 25 v. United States, 394 U.S. at 471, 89 S.Ct. at 1173. A guilty plea "can-26 not be truly voluntary unless the defendant possesses an understanding 27 of the law in relation to the facts." Id. at 466 and 1170. For the 28 record sakes, the First Circuit further held that, "A defendant whose

1 plea has been accepted in violation of Rule 11 is given the opportunity 2 to plead anew." Id. at 472 and 1173; United States v. Cruz-Rivera, 3 357 F.3d 10, 13 (1st Cir. 2004) (Rule 11 requires, in relevant part, 4 only that the District Court ensure that the defendant understands "the 5 nature of each charge" to which he is pleading guilty. Fed.R.Crim.P. 11 6 (b)(1)(G)).

7 Now, that the person convicted is represented by counsel is irrele-8 vant to a Boykin violation. The defendants in Boykin and Price Paul 9 were represented by counsel in the state court proceedings. Boykin, 10 395 U.S. at 239, 89 S.Ct. at 1710; Price Paul, 540 F.2d at 419. The 11 issue in those cases [As in Mr. Wilkerson's case in question] was suffi-12 ciency of the record to show a voluntary and intelligent waiver by 13 guilty plea of the privilege against self-incrimination, the right to 14 trial by jury, and the right to confront one's accusers. Boykin, at 15 243 and 1712; Price Paul, at 420. See, (Affidavit of Mr. Wilkerson).

16 In Pettiford at Infra, Petitioner refers this Honorable Court where 17 the authority/legal principle (precedence) of the First Circuit has 18 already been established years ago and it is "CRYSTAL CLEAR" holding 19 that, "With no memory there was no affirmative waiver. Exceptional 20 circumstances may excuse a delayed making of a claim, Knight v. United 21 States, 37 F.3d 769, 773 (1st Cir. 1994), and 'IGNORANCE MAY BE A FAC-22 TOR.'" See, (Affidavit of Mr. Wilkerson in further support of ignorance
 23 being a factor to his exceptional circumstances -- from Petitioner's 24 juvenile status, harsh upbringing/childhood, etc., already found and 25 established by the Honorable Nancy Gertner, D.J.). See also, (Exhibits 26 D - G).

27 The Tenth Circuit in Sena v. Romero, 617 F.2d 579, 580 (10th Cir.
 28 1980), held that, "Placing burden of proof upon state prisoner to es-

1 establish that his guilty plea in state trial court was involuntary was 2 error in habeas corpus proceeding in that Rule in Boykin required an 3 affirmative showing of voluntariness and a silent record shifted the 4 burden to the Government to prove that the waiver was knowingly, 5 voluntarily and intelligently made." And, it is "error, plain on the 6 face of the record, for the trial judge to accept petitioner's guilty 7 plea without an affirmative showing that it was intelligent and volun-8 tary." Boykin at 395 U.S. at 242, 89 S.Ct. at 1711.

9 Therefore, in a Denial Order reprimanding the Government's ill-10 actions, the Honorable Gertner, D.J. in support of Petitioner's in-11 experience, ignorance and juvenile status, etc., held that:

12 "If the Government is so concerned..., then they 13 should also be concerned about a defendant who is 14 'IGNORANT' of the implications of pleading guilty
 15 to charge 'A' rather than charge 'B', who, detained 16 for many months, unable to make bail, may plead 17 guilty without any charge bargaining, just because 18 he is offered time served and immediate release" 19 [As the said situation with Mr. Wilkerson].

20 Id. at 4. See, (Exhibit - D). See also, (Affidavit of Mr. Wilkerson 21 in support of the aforementioned holding by the Honorable Gertner, D.J.

22 CONCLUSION

23 In the instant matter at hand, Petitioner, pro-se, hereby respect-24 fully requests for this Honorable Court to apply the First Circuit's 25 authority in United States v. Pettiford, 101 F.3d 199 (1st Cir. 1996), 26 in Mr. Wilkerson's present situation, where the Court in pertinent 27 parts explicitly found:

28 "He was unsuccessful in obtaining useful tapes, post, 29 and subsequently attempted to reconstruct the pro-30 ceedings through the use of affidavits. Ultimately, 31 the courts vacated eight of the nine convictions.
 32 The Boston Municipal Court Judge, finding no record
 33 that the trial judge had engaged in any colloquy 34 with the defendant at the time of his guilty plea,

1 vacated the convictions on the ground that the 2 Commonwealth had failed to carry its burden of 3 producing a 'contemporaneous record affirmatively 4 [showing] that the defendant waived his rights voluntarily and knowingly,' as required under the Federal Constitution and Massachusetts law. The Dorchester District Court apparently did the same."

5 Id. at 200.

6 "For the Boston Municipal Court cases there were 7 no records, presumably because more than two and 8 a half years had elapsed since the plea and they 9 had been destroyed pursuant to permissive Rule 10 211A(4). In the Dorchester District Court there 11 were tapes, but they were unintelligible. One Court demonstrably, and the other apparently, 12 applied the Massachusetts rule that the burden is on the state to show the voluntariness of the plea, Commonwealth v. Duquette, 386 Mass. 834, 841, 438
N.E.2d 334 (1982), and granted the motions to vacate."

13 Id. at 202. See, (Exhibits A - G and supporting affidavit of Mr.
14 Wilkerson, pro-se).

15 Mr. Wilkerson further asserts for the record sakes that, even 16 the Honorable Gertner, D.J. below has "OVERRULED" Judge Dolan's 17 Denial Order (for its erroneous reasons without even investigating 18 Petitioner's status that would have reflected -- Juvenile) and the 19 Massachusetts Appeals Court (at Exhibits - B & C), where the Honorable Gertner, D.J. explicitly held that:

20 "I need not resolve the issue. Even if Mitchell 21 is the standard, this record is inadequate. To 22 be sure, the state district court implies that the colloquy was defective, that Mr. Wilkerson 23 "probably did not get a full colloquy." The state court judge suggests that that failure can 24 be excused because Mr. Wilkerson knew he had a right to appeal, and had appealed in other cases.
25 Mr. Wilkerson's actual knowledge of his rights is not enough to justify an inadequate judicial 26 colloquy."

27 Id. at 12. See, (Exhibit - G).

28 Moreso, Petitioner states that, even though the present case de-

1 rives from a state proceedings where no tapes/transcripts are availa-2 ble, during Mr. Wilkerson's Federal Sentencing proceedings -- the 3 Honorable Gertner, (A Federal District Judge in Massachusetts), 4 following Federal law and the United States Constitution as pin-5 pointed above, has already made it clear that the instant conviction
6 should be invalidated and vacated. The Honorable Gertner, D.J. consi-
7 dering Petitioner's sentence via, the Sentencing Guidelines, made it 8 known that she adheres to her own District Court's precedences [Re-9 questing that this Honorable Richard G. Stern, D.J. does likewise, 10 and follows suit with Judge Gertner's ruling -- not creating a con-11 flict...], by emphasizing that:

12 This analysis is consistent with the analyses of other judges 13 of this Court. Id. at 17. See, (Exhibit - G).

14 In closing, Mr. Wilkerson, pro-se, explicitly asserts that, the 15 requested Habeas Corpus should also be granted, in light of the Supre-16 me Court's holding in Williams v. Taylor, 529 U.S. 420, 146 L.Ed.2d 17 435, 120 S.Ct. 1479 (2000), where the Justices opinion/ruling
18 emphasized that, "A prisoner who developed his claim in State Court 19 [as here, with Mr. Wilkerson] and can prove the State Court's decision 20 was 'contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly 21 established federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court of the 22 United States,' [in the same manner Petitioner has overwhelmingly 23 done] is not barred from obtaining relief by Section 2254(d)(1)" [as 24 also reflected above as a whole by the various authorities cited 25 herein in conjunction with Judge Gertner's holding at supra, at 20.
26 Id. at 450.

27 WHEREFORE, Petitioner, Charles Wilkerson, pro-se, respectfully
28 requests that this Honorable Court thoroughly entertains the instant

1 motion to amend -- the aforementioned facts, authorities, exhibits, 2 arguments (legal/factual) and accompanying affidavit etc., and 3 humbly prays that all the reliefs requested are thereby GRANTED 4 as a whole and/or in part; GRANT Petitioner's leave to file the 5 instant Rule 15(a),F.R.Civ.P. Motion to Amend; GRANT Petitioner
6 the Appointment of Counsel; GRANT Mr. Wilkerson a "FULL AND FAIR 7 EVIDENTIARY HEARING" for Petitioner to fully develop all the facts 8 of his claim(s)/Plead Anew; GRANT Petitioner the VACATUR of the 9 present State conviction in question; GRANT the instant Motion to 10 Amend with Petitioner's Writ of Habeas Corpus pursuant to 28 U.S.C.
11 Section 2254, in light of the following legal authorities: Boykin, 12 McCarthy, Pettiford, Townsend and Mack at supra, etc.; and/or 13 GRANT Mr. Wilkerson whatever other relief this Honorable Court 14 deems just, proper and/or necessary as the law demands ... due to 15 "EXCEPTIONAL CIRCUMSTANCES" way beyond Petitioner's control -- 16 where a denial of the instant reliefs requested will raise some 17 serious Constitutional questions and cause Mr. Wilkerson, pro-se, 18 to suffer a grave miscarriage of justice of a prisoner who is 19 "ACTUALLY 'FACTUALLY' INNOCENT."

20 SIGNED ON THIS 31 DAY OF September, 2004.
